Tokai Rubber Industry (Head office: Komaki-city, Aichi-prefecture; President: Yoshiaki Nishimura) announces that it has conducted a commemorative ceremony to mark the 10th year anniversary for the establishment of TOKAI RUBBER (GUANGZHOU) Co., Ltd. (TRG for short), its subsidiary located in Guangzhou, Guangdong Province, China. The company specializes in manufacturing and selling automotive anti-vibration rubber and hose products.

TRG was established in December 2003 as an automotive hose plant amid the high economic growth in China in order to keep pace with its expanding automotive market. Launching production in October 2004, the plant has been steadily expanding its manufacturing items including automotive anti-vibration rubber. It serves as a product supply base for Japanese automakers operating in central and south China.

In the ceremony, about 1200 people were present ranging from government officials to associates from our group companies. Group Chairman Tetsuo Naruse called for a further leap into the future, saying, “Thanks to the instructions from the local government and our business partners, TRG has marked its 10th year anniversary. As an important manufacturing base in south China, I expect TRG to take a further leap instead of being satisfied with the current situation so that we can contribute to developing the Chinese automotive industry further.”

Since the Group founded TOKAI RUBBER (TIANJIN) CO., Ltd. in 1995 as the first Chinese base, we have been operating 16 manufacturing and development bases there to date including TRG. We are determined to swiftly and continuously supply high-quality products in the world’s leading mega market.
